

Remarks by Ambassador Sibi George on the occasion of the Constitution Day of India celebrations in Kuwait,

Nov 26, 2021

Distinguished guests, children, teachers, ladies and gentlemen,

My Greetings on the occasion of the Constitution Day of India. It was on this day, November 26, 1949, 299 members of the Constituent Assembly of India formally adopted the Constitution of India in New Delhi. Since its first meeting in December 1946, the Constituent Assembly took two years, eleven months and seventeen days to complete the task of finalizing the constitution.

Let's for a moment think about the many challenges that generation of India faced. They were determined to take India out of several centuries of oppression and colonial rule. They were determined to establish a SOVEREIGN SOCIALIST SECULAR DEMOCRATIC REPUBLIC and to secure to all its citizens, all generations to come JUSTICE, social, economic and political; LIBERTY of thought, expression, belief, faith and worship; EQUALITY of status and of opportunity; and to promote among them all FRATERNITY assuring the dignity of the individual.

The future of 1/6th of the total population of the world and several generations to come were in their hands. And they delivered. What came out of their long deliberations in the Constituent Assembly by was one of the most unique constitution which provided a frame work for peaceful governance of our motherland and its emergence as beacon of hope in the comity of nations. It emerged as a model format to many new independent nations, all across the world. That makes November 26, our Constitution Day a very important day in our nation's history and in the history of the world.

It is the framework within which India re-emerged as a major power overcoming the suppression and slavery imposed on 1/6th of the humanity that spanned over hundreds of years. This constitution has also provided India the necessary framework to which contributed to India's achievements in diverse fields, including atomic energy, space science, agriculture, bio-technology and information technology, for which India is well-known the world over. And now during the devastating Covid 19 pandemic we have seen India emerging as the pharmacy of the world supplying our Made in India vaccines to 93 countries and Covid 19 related medicines and assistance to over 150 countries. And today we have given 120 crore (1.2 billion) doses of made in India vaccine within India.

It is a matter of pride for an Ambassador to say with confidence that the economic and scientific transformation India achieved was under a constitution which guarantees liberty of thought, expression, belief, faith and worship; equality of status and of opportunity.

Dear Friends,

India today is a land of billion opportunities. India will soon overtake China as the most populous country in the world. In India, we speak different languages, we worship different gods, we eat different foods, we wear different clothes, but there is a feeling of oneness and common consciousness that keeps us together, make us proud of our nation India. We need to take a deep look at day to day life in India to understand the importance and influence of our constitution. Every day it is the constitution of India that gets celebrated when a democratic election takes place in some part of India. Every day it is the constitution of India that gets celebrated when we conduct our day to day life in peaceful and orderly manner. Every day it is the constitution of India that gets celebrated when we conduct our examinations all across the country to select people on the basis of merit. Its influence and impact is so deep at everything in India.

Today morning at the Central Hall of the Parliament, the main event to celebrate the Constitution day was held attended by Hon'ble President of India, Vice President of India and Prime Minister of India. Hon'ble Rashtrapatiji read out the preamble of the constituent to the nation.

For India, Nov 26 is an occasion to remember and honour the framers of our constitution. Here in Kuwait we started the day with floral tributes at the feet of Mahatma Gandhi. Today we remember the members of the Constituent Assembly, its President Dr. Rajendra Prasad and the Chairman of the Drafting Committee Dr. B.R. Ambedkar and many others who gave us this Constitution.

We will now together read the preamble of our constitution to join hands with our 1.3 billion brothers and sisters to celebrate our constitution. Each word of the preamble has great meaning, great message, a message that enshrines the values of our history and our freedom struggle. We are also opening of a weeklong photo exhibition on the making of the constitution of India at our newly renovated library.

May I request you to rise and join me in reading the preamble.

Thank you.

Dear Friends,

While November 26 is a happy occasion as we celebrate Constitution Day but it also is a sad reminder of the Mumbai terror attacks, which had taken place on this day in 2008. It is the anniversary of gruesome terrorist attacks in Mumbai that lasted three days in November 2008. 166 innocent people lost their life and 300 innocent people were injured.

We feel the pain of those who lost their loved ones in this terrorist attacks from across the border. Today a grateful nation bows to its security personnel who valiantly fought the terrorists. We continue to face the menace of cross border terrorism. It is a day to rededicate ourselves in the fight against terrorism and to rededicate ourselves to protect our country and to work towards prosperity and development. It is a day declare to ourselves and to the world that our constitution, our democracy and our country will continue to flourish and progress.

Thank you.

WE, THE PEOPLE OF INDIA, having solemnly resolved to constitute India into a SOVEREIGN SOCIALIST SECULAR DEMOCRATIC REPUBLIC and to secure to all its citizens
